

Monk's side table

The Monk's side table consists of three simple parts, which are a tabletop, support, and base, all made of bronze to form a single mass. It is a side table, and these components are solid material and seamless forms that exist like a piece of art. The tabletop is designed with a gentle rising curve, giving a soft impression to the hard metal materials, and beaded edge decoration is used to achieve an Eastern aura. We used Japanese casting techniques to utilize a free and delicate beautiful formative art to create furniture.
