

Iwa Ottoman

Iwa (meaning “rock” in Japanese) is an ottoman series inspired by river stones shaped over time. Designed in various shapes—square, rectangular, triangular, and trapezoidal—these pieces can be used individually or combined. The stitching avoids traditional intersections, instead folding back before crossing, allowing it to blend seamlessly with the curved forms. Leather remnants are repurposed as accents, evoking natural rock cracks and adding visual interest. This design combines sustainability with a natural aesthetic, offering a modern take on organic forms.
