

Kigumi Stacking Shelf

Kigumi is a new series of products inspired by traditional Japanese wooden architecture. Made from high-quality Akita cedar, it incorporates the beauty and functionality of Japan's woodworking techniques into contemporary design. Japanese wooden architecture has long used the kigumi technique of joining wood pieces together, with horizontal and vertical elements creating both structural stability and aesthetic harmony. Temples and tea rooms are designed to evoke a sense of tranquility and stability by creating balanced structures of simple yet refined design. Kigumi was born from this philosophy. Akita cedar features beautiful grain patterns, is lightweight yet strong, and has a unique, soothing fragrance. Its soft, warm texture feels pleasant to the touch, and as it ages it deepens in character, growing even more attractive with use.

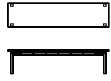

A simple, cleanly designed, and eminently practical shelf. It can be stacked up to four levels, providing flexibility in layout for living or work spaces. Useful for both storage and display, it offers a versatile way to enhance any space.
