

Museum cabinet for large objects

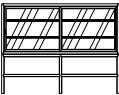

A new addition to the museum cabinet for private collection series, first introduced in 2015, this piece is designed to beautifully showcase curated items, much like collection cases in art galleries and museums.

This cabinet features the greatest depth among those in our series, measuring 700 mm to accommodate larger items for storage and display. Its spacious interior allows for a variety of display possibilities—from showcasing open-spread large-format books to housing long specimens, wide-brimmed hats, or oversized plates with ease. The tall legs on which it stands bring the displayed objects to an optimal viewing height while lending a sense of lightness to the substantial volume of the cabinet.
