

Piccolo

Anodized aluminum finishing, commonly used in precision equipment like computers and cameras, is a highly durable process that enhances corrosion resistance. Unlike paint, this technique allows dye to penetrate the aluminum's porous surface, creating deep, rich colors. Now, our anodized aluminum side table comes in a new, more compact size we call Piccolo ("small" in Italian). True to its name, this petite yet charming table adds character and presence to any space. It works perfectly as a living room side table, a bedside companion, or an accent in an entryway. Available in six colors and two heights, Piccolo combines functionality with elegant design, making it a versatile addition to any setting.
